

Fifth Avenue's Easter Day Parade

Mrs. Burke Roche was among the throng that filled the thoroughfare. It was one of the greatest parades the avenue has ever known.
Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Photo, International Film.

Cornelius Vanderbilt walking with Mrs. Vanderbilt and their daughter Grace. He looks more familiar in the uniform of a Brigadier-General, which he only recently doffed.

Above—Ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who was 85 years old last Wednesday, was out for a constitutional and to see the crowds.

Photo, International Film.

About the merriest of the paraders were these wounded doughboys and their sailor companion. It is doubtful if even the prettiest and best dressed of the women who were out attracted as much attention as this quintet.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Ex-Senator William A. Clark was out and walked home after church with his family. He is 80 years old, but his vigor is unimpaired and he seemed to enjoy the gay scene as much as anybody.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

At left—Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen in an attractive costume was noticeable among the smartly gowned women.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Margaret Warren and her pet dog at once attracted the attention of the photographers.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.